It's not about the Metro!

Undesign the Redline is an exhibit that explores the history of race-based exclusion from DC neighborhoods.

Undesign the Redline:

- Explores the history of redlining — the explicit devaluation of residential areas based on race — in upper Northwest DC
- Helps us understand why inequities in housing and wealth persist
- Encourages us to ask: how can we “undesign” these wrongs?

Get Involved:

- Visit the exhibit at [Cleveland Park Neighborhood Library](http://Cleveland Park Neighborhood Library).
- Schedule a tour. Contact undesigndc@gmail.com.
- Attend a program featuring historians, housing advocates, and descendants of displaced families.
- Go to undesigndc.org to learn more and sign up for updates about coming events.
